What an amazing year! Last year, just before the previous issue of CasketWorks, we launched the Bones miniatures line, a line of highly detailed white plastic miniatures that are ready to play or paint right out of the package. Within weeks we knew we had a hit, as they rapidly became about a third of the models we shipped out.

But we had a problem. Plastic molds cost tens of thousands of dollars, and we wanted to grow the line faster than our usual resources would allow. So we turned to Kickstarter, and asked you to help us raise the funds. We started by asking for $30,000 to produce 30 new models, which would double the size of the line. In 30 days, we had exceeded our wildest dreams, producing over 200 new models and raising $3,377,000.

Over 18,000 people placed orders with us for the promise of this amazing new product, which at that time, had yet to be made! As I sit and type this, I'm surrounded by the beginnings of the fulfillment process. 25,000 Vampire Kits (a set with 240 models in it, offered as our most popular reward) sit behind me on the new mezzanine we constructed to make room for the product. Workers are moving shelving to the new addition to the building that we added in order to have the floor space to hold the 14 trailer-trucks worth of product. Almost a dozen new employees were hired to help us with sorting, organizing, and fulfillment. And we've made room in our factory for our own Plastic Injection machine, to begin making plastic products in house!

This explosive growth would not have been possible without you, the fan. We came with our hat in our hand, asking for help, and you responded, and the response was incredible! At the time our project ended, we were the 3rd highest funded Kickstarter project of all time!

The fruits of this can be seen starting on page 50. The Bones product line is over 200 new models, including 2 new varieties - Chronoscope Bones and Pathfinder Bones, licensed by Paizo! Fantasy, Sci-Fi, and now inexpensive models (some as low as $1.99!) for the best selling edition of the worlds oldest and most popular role-playing game!

Thank you, friends, fans, hobbyists, and gamers. You have transformed our company, and helped us to transform the hobby! Good things are in the future for all of us!

DARK HEAVEN

BONES

Twenty years ago, you could go into a gaming store with a couple of bills and come out with a handful of minis. Not so much today. But today's quality is far superior to those figures of the past. Reaper's Bones meet that sweet spot where low price intersects with incredible detail. All the fiddly bits you love to paint are there at prices that will astound you.
